Carmen Salvatore, member of the county school board, was in Belle Glade for several days this week where he had a crew of workmen with trucks hauling muck to fill in the school yards. The county board of education of the town of Belle Glade furnished two trucks two days in an effort to expedite the work. Mr. Salvatore said several loads of muck would be necessary to put the school yard in first class condition.

Ownership of The Lake Worth Herald changed hands on Friday of this week. Mrs. C. G. Good (Lucille) has sold on her interest to three of her sons, K. J. and W. C. Sentele. The sons have been associated with the Herald for many years and have hundreds of friends throughout the county who will wish them success in their new venture.

Rev. Earl W. Vennunn, Florida district superintendent, will appear at the Pahokee Nazarene church on Sunday. Mr. Vennunn and his wife will be at the morning service and Mrs. Vennunn will deliver the night message. Rev. J. P. Jernigan, pastor of the church, extends a cordial invitation to all friends of the church to be present here this evening.

Patrolmen Harper and Carl Harper of the Pahokee Police Department were issued their new driving permits in the Lake Region. On Monday there were stationed at the bridge in Pahokee 100 or more drivers who had applied for permits. During the hours they were on the job they found four drivers who were operating cars without permits.

On Wednesday the patrolmen stopped at the Pahokee Point where they stop to find out if drivers who had spent the night in the state car had no permit. The driver was stopped and the driver had no permit from his home state. It took a lot of telephoning and calling of officers in the driver's home town before he was allowed to proceed.

Several times during the past month Patrolmen Harper and Carl Harper have been on the job in the Lake Region. Hundreds of one-eyed cars have been stopped and the defective lights repaired. Today it is unusual to find a one-eyed car in the area, which is a good sign.

Patrolmen Harper and Carl Harper were assigned to a new territory. It was nothing unusual for them to travel a dozen or more miles between Canal Point and Pahokee.

The two patrolmen, though firm in their instructions to motorists, are at the same time courteous and helpful.

Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Denton returned this week from College Station, Texas, where they went last week to attend the Texas A. & M. football game. Their son, Vance, is a freshman in the A. & M. school and another son, Velpeau, stationed in the air corps at Oxnard, Calif., flew to College Station for the game and a meeting with his parents and brother.

Upon their return to Pahokee, Mr. and Mrs. Denton learned that Velpeau, on his return to Oxnard flying field had undergone an emergency operation for the removal of his appendix at a Santa Barbara hospital. Late word from there is to the effect that he is improving rapidly from the operation.

Here it is summer weather again. And after we asked the weatherman to hold the Thanksgiving dinner for awhile, too, just for a taste of change, for the coloring up of oranges and the relief of panting bird dogs and turtles.

No cooperation at all—but that won't do any good to write your congressman about it; the weathermen are happily under civil service and report the weather as they find it without regard to which way the political wind is blowing.—Tampa Times.

No German soldiers have planted their feet on American soil. But there has been a genuine invasion of America. It has taken the form of an invasion of the perfectly good American language. It is evident every day in newspapers and magazines and in public speeches.

There stand the Germans: "panzer," "Luftwaffe," "blitzkrieg." There is not a bit of sense in it. "Panzer" is no whit better than the "armored car." "Luftwaffe" does not mean more than "air arm" or "air force." "Blitzkrieg" conveys no more than "lightning war."

There is no more excuse for it than for French names of food on American restaurant menus.—NEA Editorial.

It is little countries like the ones that have won the friendship and confidence of those who come to the Lake Region to buy our produce. Mr. Hickerson makes every effort, of course, to secure the
